Board Pales As Teachers Ask Pay Hike

A salary committee presented the Carmel School Board at its board meeting last night with a salary schedule which provides for a $14,178.00 across the board payroll increase ranging from $75 a year raise for beginning teachers to $315 per year for those already receiving top pay under the old schedule.

The reason for making the increase heaviest in the highest brackets is to equalize the salaries of Carmel's most qualified teachers with those of Monterey, Pacific Grove and other schools throughout the state. Beginning teachers already receive fair salaries for teaching in the Carmel schools but teachers of experience and advanced professional training do not.

The board, faced with a payroll increase of $34,384.00 for teachers for next year (over $20,000 of this will have to be paid even if proposed salary schedule is turned down, since it involves salaries of additional teachers, already hired for next term; automatic increases under the old salary schedule, etc.)

Asked if expected income could cover the $34,384, Financial Controller Peter Mawdsley said it could but there would be no funds, after the completion of this year's building program at River School, for further pay-as-you-go building projects.

The board decided to study the proposed schedule and meet again Monday night at 7:00 o'clock to take action on it.

The Pine Cone Recommends

Party affiliation will probably determine the outcome of the special election Tuesday, for state senator from the twenty-fifth senatorial district.

Fred S. Farr of Carmel, a lawyer, is the Democratic candidate; James W. Silliman, Salinas businessman is a Republican. Both men are intelligent, honest, sincere, and enthusiastic. Silliman has the edge in experience since he has served several terms in the state assembly and was elected Speaker at the opening of the 1953 session. His record on clean-up and economy committees is good. He has battled with the bill-board interests in the past and promises to continue the good work.

Farr, a Carmel man, says he can better protect Carmel interests at the state level than his Salinas opponent.

Though we respect and admire Mr. Farr as a lawyer and a fellow Carmelite, we recommend Silliman for state senate because of his experience and his record.

DR. HUGHES HONORED

Last weekend Dr. James Hughes of Carmel was the recipient of a certificate of appreciation by the Ninth District Dental Society at a ceremony following a dinner at the Mission Ranch. This certificate was to honor him on his retirement from 48 years of dental practice.

William Greer Wakefield was hired last night by the Carmel School Board as recreation director of the district and part time physical education teacher.

School Trustees Hire Recreation Director-Teacher

Carmel School Board, at its meeting last night, hired a year-around recreation director and part time physical education teacher for a salary of $6396 a year.

He is William Greer Wakefield, 36 year old supervisor of health and physical education of the Calaveras County Schools. His wife, Roberta, is an elementary school teacher in Calaveras County, and they have a son, Bob, who will enter the eighth grade at Sunset. They plan to build a home in Mission Fields tract.

Wakefield will begin work for the Carmel School District, arranging the summer recreation program, as soon as school closes in Calaveras County, about the second week in June. According to School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell, Wakefield's first job will be to revise fees for some of the summer recreation program activities, such as the day camp up Carmel Valley which was criticized at December's P.T.A.-School Board meeting as a luxury item that should be paid for by parents rather than by the school district. Adult folk dancing clubs and similar groups may be asked to pay more for use of high school facilities, also.

Wakefield is a graduate of University of Southern California, a physical education major with a minor in biological sciences. Before U. S. C. he attended Long Beach City College, Santa Ana Junior College and Reis High School. As a student at Santa Ana he won the National Jr. A. A. U. High Jump Championship. He won letters in high school and college, participating in numerous track meets. He also played on the school softball and basketball teams, played junior American Legion baseball, and enjoys tennis (Continued on Page Fifteen)

Community Makes Full Cycle With Opening Of Carmel Crafts Studios

BY MARJORY LLOYD

Tomorrow evening the people of Carmel are invited to attend the opening of the Carmel Craft Studios on San Carlos street south of Ocean Avenue. Open house will be held all day on Saturday also, with coffee and doughnuts served, and in the evening special entertainment by the Bohemian Boys' Quartet.

Already, before the official opening, interested Carmelites are roaming about the center and the oldtimers, such as Tal Josselyn, are reminiscing about the days of the Arts and Crafts Building where the people of the town met every day to chat, drink coffee and watch their friends work in the structure which occupied the site of the present Golden Bough Theater, and, before the fire, was known as the Green Room. Carmel has come a full cycle from the organization started in the town's early days by Nana Foster to the new development on San Carlos Street, but the old spirit still remains.

On Wednesday, April 20, the Senate passed the Colorado River Water Storage bill, which includes the controversial Echo Park Dam that conservation groups have been fighting so hard for the last four years. Senator Neuberger of Oregon introduced an amendment to delete Echo Park Dam from the bill and this was defeated by a vote of 52 to 30. California Senators went along with Neuberger. It had been expected that the Senate, traditionally in favor of pork-barrel projects, would pass the bill and conservation groups are not therefore discouraged. On the contrary the size of the vote against Echo Park Dam was encouraging. Senator Neuberger stated that his amendment received more votes than he had thought possible.

The bill is still in the House Committee on the Interior where the Bureau of Reclamation is trying to answer questions raised by Congressman Saylor and others as to certain doubtful statements made in the hearings. Conservation groups are hopeful of better results here.

An article in the May Readers Digest by Leslie Miller, former Governor of Wyoming and now

Chairman of the Hoover Commission Task Group on Reclamation and Water Supply, is required reading for anyone wishing to get all the facts in this controversy. It is called "Dollars into Dust" and is a devastating expose of the activities of the Bureau of Reclamation, not only in connection with the Upper Colorado project but in many other instances.

Some months ago August Nieto and Fred Klepich conceived the idea of a center in Carmel where the various arts and crafts produced in the town could not only be displayed and sold, but could actually be seen being made by craftsmen. From this start has grown the partnership of the two men in the building of Carmel's most unique development since (Continued from Page Six)

This appeal will be ended with a benefit dance at the Carmel American Legion Hall, on the evening of May 8 from 8:00 to 12:00 o'clock. Come everybody and have a good time.

Planning Board Disagrees On Master Plan

In an adjourned meeting preceding their study session Wednesday afternoon, the Carmel Planning Commission granted building permits to:

Joe Belici, to remodel storage rooms at the rear of his Mediterranean Market on Ocean and Mission.

William Bishop, to build an addition on workroom space to his building on the west side of San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Barnet Segal to make interior changes in his property, occupied by the Casual Shop, on the south side of Ocean between Mission and San Carlos.

In the study session the planning commission made the discovery that their membership was not unanimous in opinion on the need of a master plan for Carmel and on the reception the community would give such a project. The question was raised in the audience: if a planning expert were hired for the several thousand dollars such services command and made a master plan for the community, would the council, the planning commission, and the citizens ever be able to agree on enough of its provisions so it would be of practical value?

1700 Vaccinated Local Children O. K. To Date

Dr. Myron Husband, director of public health for Monterey County, is in Berkeley today investigating the situation which has arisen with the withdrawal of all Salk polio vaccine allocated for first and second grade children in the county.

Yesterday word was received from the United States Surgeon General that all Salk polio vaccine manufactured by the Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley be withheld from the public pending investigation of eight paralytic cases among children inoculated with it.

None of these cases were reported from Monterey County, where no reaction of any kind has been reported from the parents of the 1700 children who so far have received the vaccine.

No further shots will be given locally until the source of the trouble has been found and the go-ahead signal is received from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, according to the county health department today.

LITTLE SEVEN TRACK MEET AT HOLLISTER SATURDAY

Coach Howard Byrne's track squad gets in some much-needed action this Saturday when Carmel High enters full lightweight and heavyweight teams in the CCAL "B" division meet at the Hollister oval. With workouts and meets washed out by the elements, the Padre thinclads are anxiously awaiting the competition with the best performers in the seven small schools of the Coast Counties Athletic League.

A look at performances in the early-season dual and three-way meets shows that Hollister rates the favorite role in the varsity class with King City showing a slight edge in the lightweight division. Hollister's top billing is justified on the strength of a fine sprint crew and two of the finest hurdlers in the league plus exceptional strength in all field events. A blazing sprinter, Jim Pettit, leads a strong King City lightweight squad which has topped all the "B" schools in practice meets. Carmel's only loss in the lightweight division was to the Pettit-led KC speedsters.

Carmel's lightweight squad will attempt to do business with Bob Alvarez in the sprints; Dave Ostrander, Gary Bradburn and Dick Holt in the middle distances; Dick Leutzinger, Hampton Stewart and Buzz Richardson in the 1320. Tam McPhail, Millard Martin and Dave Tobiasen in the hurdles; Don Petty, Art Wilkerson, Bob Forbes, Phil Durbrow, John Stiles, Steve Littig, Bob Alvarez, and Hampton Stewart in the field events.

Potential varsity point-getters are Clyde Klaumann, shot put, 440, and relay; Gene Mullnix, 440 and relay; Deane Phillips, pole vault; Mike Mosolf, broad-jump, hurdles and high jump; George Wightman, mile; Maryann Sutton, 360, Don Rowe, sprints and hurdles; Roger Bullene, sprints; Mike Stanton, sprints; Dave Gray and Pierre Olivier, discus; Mike Mehen, 880.

Next Wednesday the Carmel track squads visit Salinas to participate in the CCAL trials which qualify lightweight and varsity performers for the big CCAL meet on Saturday, May 7.

CARMEL NINE PLAYS AT LIVE OAK TOMORROW

"B" League Standings	W	L
Pacific Grove	4	0
Carmel	3	1
Live Oak	3	1
Gilroy	1	3
Gonzales	1	3
King City	0	4

Second place in the CCAL "B" division baseball race is at stake tomorrow afternoon when the Carmel Padres visit Morgan Hill for a joust with the newest member of the league. The Live Oak nine has been surprisingly strong in all their games this season, losing only to the defending champions from Pacific Grove. Carmel's only loss also came at the hands of the Breakers so tomorrow's clash should be an even-up affair. Tomorrow's winner will retain a slight chance to overtake the leading Breakers and the loser will be eliminated from contention. While Carmel and Live Oak are settling the second place dispute, Pacific Grove will meet the challenge of the fast improving Hollister team.

Carmel will start tomorrow's crucial with a battery of Mike Mosolf pitching and Bob Michela catching. An infield of Paul Fratessa, first base, Jim Konrad, second base, Dick Jennings, third base, and West Whittaker, shortstop, will handle the inner defense. The outfield patrol will be manned by Roger Bullene, Bill McCormack and Craig Chapman.

Next Tuesday afternoon the Padres journey to Santa Cruz for a return game with the Cardinals. Carmel upset Santa Cruz in an earlier meeting this season. Bill Powell, Carmel's stubby right-hander, will hurl this one for the Padres.

PADRES EDGE GONZALES, 7-5

Carmel High's varsity baseball team hung onto second place in the "B" league race by outlasting the Gonzales Spartans for a narrow 7-6 victory last Friday afternoon. Played on the muddy Carmel diamond, the game was a wild affair which saw the bases well occupied with runners as the pitchers were having difficulty locating a moving home plate. Carmel got off to a three-run bulge in the first inning on the strength of two walks and a pair of solid blows by Craig Chapman and Dick Jennings. Paul Fratessa's four-master in the second frame gave the Padres run number four. However, the visitors got the four runs back and added a go-ahead fifth as they blasted starting pitcher Mike Mosolf for three consecutive blows following three free passes. Billy Powell took over the mound chores at this point and put out the fire. The little fire-baller pitched good ball the rest of the way as he hung up his second league victory.

The Padres iced the game in the sixth heat when a well executed hit and run play pushed over the winning marker. Gonzales threatened in the last inning as they scored one run but Powell struck out the final Spartan hitter.

Paul Fratessa, with a home run and a single, led the Padre hitters, who combed the Spartan pitching for a total of seven hits. West Whittaker turned in several fine fielding plays from his shortstop position. Carmel's valuable pick-off play paid dividends again as a Mosolf to Konrad flip picked off an eager Spartan and helped to put down a threatening rally.

NEW SPORTSMEN OFFICERS

The officers and directors of the Carmel Associated Sportsmen, Inc., for 1955-56 were elected last Thursday in the Carmel High School Library when the club held their annual election. Re-elected for another year were Walter Stuefloten as president, Hal Boyd as secretary, John Ruster as treasurer, while Roy Warner was chosen the new vice-president. The new board of directors will include Carl Von Saltza, Gen. John T. Bissell, Richard Lamb, Richard Blaney, Wick Parsons, William Wellborn, Rudy Schutz, George Bardin, Dave Davis, Jim Burkholder, John Mahoney, Jr., and Dr. G. Ridgley Parker.

Scheduled for the near future is a pistol match at the club range in Carmel Valley with the Carmel Pistol Club and a team from the Navy Line School in Monterey. Since many of the Pistol Club members also belong to the Sportsmen's Club, a method of equalizing the two teams will be devised. The wives of the participants will serve the food for the occasion.

The next regular meeting in May will be held at the range when members only will enjoy a barbecue dinner.

LIONS ELECT OFFICERS

Officers for the year 1955-56 were elected at the Tuesday meeting of the Lions Club, new president is Ken Brown and assisting him with his duties will be August Nieto as first vice-president, Allan Champe, second vice-president; Fred Stanley, secretary; Henry Venn, treasurer; and new directors, John Rennels, Sterling Hall and Romie Garneau, the last two for a two-year term. Lion-tamer is Carl Bosholm and Tail-twister, Joe Oenning. Installation of the new officers will take place at the last meeting in June and they will assume their duties at the first July meeting.

Also named at this time were the delegates who will represent the Carmel club at the convention to be held on May 5, 6, 7 and 8 at Hoberg's. Those chosen were Dr. William Coughlin, John Rennels, Allan Champe and Fred Stanley. Also going north on this occasion will be Lions Ted Fehring, Eben Whittlesey, Dutch Bell and August Nieto.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Red Finds a "Sweet Solution"

Red Jackson found a slick way to get his cows to eat what's good for them. Seems they were passing up the tall green grass—full of minerals and vitamins—and eating the short grass, which is naturally sweeter.

Red solved the problem by spraying a solution of corn syrup over the grass that was going begging. The cows sure went at it. Red says it's lucky for him—and the cows—that every one of them has a "sweet tooth."

Next week, according to Red, he's going to have his cows clean up all the weedy grass along his fences—after he sprays them with more corn syrup, of course.

From where I sit, some folks, like Red, are always trying out new tricks—and others stick with the old tried and true methods. Just a question of preference, I guess. Like the way you may enjoy coffee with meals, while I prefer a cold glass of beer. So let's not allow any bad feelings to "crop up" by thinking ours is the only choice.

Carmel Jr. Statesmen Place Second In Statewide Award

At the April 22-23 Junior Statesmen State Convention held in Fresno, the Carmel High School Junior Statesmen Chapter was rated second only to the Santa Maria Chapter in the E. A. Rogers Award. The Santa Maria Chapter surpassed Carmel by only three points out of the total of one hundred points on which the chapters were graded. Chapters from all areas of California applied for the award; they were rated on their activities, participation, and enthusiasm.

This year the Carmel Chapter held a membership drive that increased its membership from 65 to 95, topping this drive off with a beach party for the new members. The Chapter has held legislative meetings and has actively participated in the regional and state legislative sessions. Members of the chapter have submitted at least five pieces of legislation to each regional convention including a revision of the regional constitution. In addition one of the chapter members is a regional officer. The Carmel Junior Statesmen have held cake sales, and recently sponsored a car wash by which they made $42 for an American Field Service foreign student fund and a Junior Statesman Summer School Scholarship. The chapter is now planning a regional convention and a booth in the Girls League Scholarship Carnival to be held Saturday, April 30.

New Hours Allow Visitor To See Sunset At Lobos

With the start of daylight saving last Sunday, Point Lobos Reserve went on a summer schedule, opening its gates at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and keeping them open until 8:00 o'clock in the evening. J. T. Chaffee, district superintendent of the Division of Beaches and Parks announced this week.

Lobos Park Supervisor James Whitehead will maintain these hours during the daylight saving period, Chaffee says, "in order to allow the public fuller use and enjoyment of the area."

Kennel Club Classes Off To Big Start

The first of a series of classes for local dog owners was held last Sunday afternoon at the Carmel High School under the direction of Derek Rayne. Over two dozen dogs representing all classes except toys were in attendance with their owners who received instruction in correct handling in preparation for the Del Monte Dog Show on May 29.

This Sunday afternoon Dick Huizenga will give the instruction at the High School from 2:00 to 3:00 o'clock. Each Sunday between now and the show experienced members of the Del Monte Kennel Club will conduct a class.

Carmel Portraits . . .

BY DAISY BOSTICK

Artists and writers came to Carmel early in this century, settled down and worked with canvases and typewriters. Along with them came carpenters, plumbers, business men, shop keepers and general handy men. Artists and laborers alike worked and played together and many lasting friendships were formed. When a play was given at the Forest Theater a carpenter helped build the sets and an electrician did the wiring—and all for free. Probably they also had parts in the play if only to carry a spear. The population was one big family. So today I want to write of those unassuming helpers who played vital parts in building Carmel's traditions.

There was Joe Hitchcock who planted the trees on Ocean Avenue about 50 years ago and who probably tended them lovingly until they were well started. Handy, the Japanese, who worked for the development company, clearing the forest for roads, carting the brush away or burning it in huge piles in open spaces, planting young pines in vacant places and creating our present day forests where none existed.

Dear old Luis Tarango who had adopted and raised a large family was a much loved character, simple and sweet and friendly and always willing to help anyone in trouble. He chopped and sold wood for a living and once or twice a week trudged down from his small cabin back of the site of the present High School to pick up his orders which his customers tacked to a tree on Ocean Avenue.

There was Perry MacDonald, the milk man, who started his deliveries with about a dozen customers and announced his arrival in the early morning hours with much rattling of milk cans as he drove his horses over the ruts and bumps which were beginning to be known as roads. Perry felt his civic responsibilities and worked out a way to give the residents of the village some sort of a whistle at his headquarters on Sixth Avenue at 12 noon every day. At the first blast the villagers were horror-struck and they made so much fuss that in spite of Perry's good intentions the noise had to be discontinued.

Doc Peake and his donkeys were institutions. They transported the large pieces of driftwood up from the beach to those who wanted to burn them in their fireplaces—and could pay for them. If they couldn't, he did it anyway.

Doc Beck owned a drug store and dispensed soap, razors and writing materials along with patent medicines. Those were the days of prohibition and it was reported that Doc had an excellent preparation containing some medicinal alcohol which he occasionally allowed good friends to sample. It was quite a gathering place. There were no prescriptions to fill for there were no doctors.

Doc was sensitive about a slight impediment of speech which bothered him when he became excited, but Perry Newberry, who was directing a play in the Forest Theater, commandeered Doc to play a part. As I remember, it consisted of one line as he drove a donkey across the stage. The day after the performance Arthur Cyril, actor and producer, went into the drug store to congratulate Doc on playing his part so well. He said: "Really, Doc, you're a great comedian. How did you ever get that peculiar twist in your speech? It sounded like this: and Arthur gave an exaggerated imitation of the speech. Doc got so mad that he ordered Art out of the store and told him never to set foot in it again. Doc was quite a character. He didn't choose to work all the time, and whenever the spirit moved him, he deserted his pills and his potions, went out and put a sign on his door containing two simple words. "Gone Fishing!"

If anyone ever loved Carmel it was Pon Chung when he arrived fresh from China. He made himself useful by cleaning houses and doing garden work — a general handy man. He was a friendly little person. Had a small wisp of a mustache and still has it I guess. And his merry chatter in pidgin English while he scrubbed floors and washed windows was entertaining to the women. Pon Chung loved the fire ladders and whenever the alarm sounded, Pon would drop mop and bucket and run for the firetruck, jump on the rear bumper and ride gloriously with his buddies to the fire. The boys made quite a fuss over him and when he took his long-deferred trip to China they gave him a banquet, several presents and a membership to the Carmel Fire Department. It was said that Carmel had the only Chinese in America who served as a member of a fire department. Pon Chung is still around living in Monterey but coming over the hill to window wash and sweep out for his regular customers.

Ed Barnes was another general helper. All at once he disappeared and the report got started that he was dead. Soon everyone was feeling badly that no obituary had been printed in any paper for Ed. One day he appeared on Ocean Avenue and in his friendly way he spoke to every one he met. Each looked petrified and each said the same thing, "Why, Ed, I thought you were dead!" I could mention some who really believed they were seeing a ghost. His reception must have been a blow to Ed for he disappeared again and was never heard from, which gave some credence to the ghost story.

Hugh Mc Glone—he calls himself Rose Mac—is a specialist in growing roses. And they were unusually beautiful and attracted much attention from those who passed that way. When I asked him what spray he used, he exclaimed indignantly: "I use none. Bugs never attack a healthy rose!" Sometimes after my long struggle with rose-sprays I think he was right.

Uncle Joe Hand, as everyone called him, sold insurance by day and played in the Forest Theater at night. When I knew him he was well into middle age, had never been on the stage nor had he ever wanted to. But it was found that he had a truly great dramatic talent. He played several parts in the Forest Theater and finally starred in The Man From Home written by Harry Leon Wilson.

The negro population has always been small but some of them have been amongst our finest citizens. Al and Fairy Lee Byrd held warm places in our hearts. And there was Carl Harris who ran a service station and was everybody's friend. He was one of the kindest and most generous of men. No favor was too great for him to bestow. I knew him well. And the talented boy who played the trumpet in the early Bach festivals. I'm not sure of his name but I think it was Foster.

Steve Glassell, a brother of a boy who established Cabbages and Kings, was one of the most polished actors that ever trod Carmel's stage. He had a rare sense of humor and was a unique and interesting personality. And he was a great bargainer as I found out. He wanted to buy a small cabin that I owned and I wanted to sell it. The details of the transaction were all settled and everything was rosy. I gave him a list of the articles I was removing. When he came to the item Fireplace Andirons, he looked pained and surprised—even severe. He got up and said nonchalantly: "Well, I guess the deal is off." And then a bit wistfully for my benefit: "Do you realize that I was buying the house to get those andirons?" I gave up. He got them.

Volumes have been written about August Englund, the one-man police force, who rode all over the village every day and whose mere frown would quell any disturbance. He made a fine figure of a man sitting erect and soldier-like on his beautiful horse, Black Beauty. When I first came here I didn't know that there was a garbage man — maybe there wasn't. I disposed of my rubbish by burning it in my fireplace. But the egg-shells wouldn't burn, so

Zenas Potter Talks On Painting Trip At Town House

By E. Leigh Mudge

One of the most versatile men in Carmel is Zenas Potter. Many know him as a retired advertising man, as a diplomatic advisor, as a public-spirited promoter of all sorts of public services. Recently he has been prominent in the careful investigation of the crime problem on the Peninsula.

During the rather gradual process of his retirement, Mr. Potter has become known as a painter of interesting landscapes. Some time ago he had a one-man show at the galleries of the Carmel Art Association, and during April a varied collection of his works is shown at Town House.

On Wednesday, April 20, he gave a very delightful informal talk at the Carmel Foundation Assembly on his artistic rambles about Europe. Beginning with some recollections of his earlier painting, he told of a bundle of paintings that followed him from Italy to Paris and were appraised for import duty at one franc, a fact that may account for his doing no painting for several years.

After World War I, Mr. Potter became business manager of the New York Evening Post. His wife, who was already known as a writer of children's books, did some work for the Post and also wrote a book published by Dutton. She submitted some sketches as suggestions to the illustrators, and was asked why she should not illustrate them herself. The result is seen in the charming illustrations that she has drawn and her husband has finished. Several of these are in the Town House exhibition.

During World War II Mr. Potter was in Washington in charge of the rubber conservation program. Later he became associated with Chester Bowles, then Ambassador to India. But now this man of many interests finds it satisfying to ramble about the world with no business responsibilities and no schedules to keep. He has found it delightful to venture into little European fishing villages, or hidden mountain hamlets, where life is simple, sometimes a bit primitive, but generally comfortable and interesting. I think he is something of a gourmet, for he spoke very feelingly of the delicious foods found in the cafes of even isolated French towns.

Aladdin At Sunset Auditorium on May 7

The Monterey Peninsula League for Community Service will sponsor a play for children, Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp, in Sunset Auditorium on Saturday, May 7. Two performances will be given, one in the morning at 10:30 and another in the afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

All proceeds from the play will go into the production of another performance for children to be given next fall. It is the hope of the league to establish a permanent Children's Theater on the Peninsula.

Direction is by the Wharf Theater under Carmelita Benson, the same organization handling the staging. The cast is as follows: Aladdin, Robert Carson; Aladdin's mother, Betty Fowlston; Mai Li, Tiny Newman; Wicked Magician, Jack Sword; Empress, Shelagh Scoville; Emperor, Ronald Strom; Kwan Lin, Betty Yates; Princess Lotus Flower, Pauline Chappell; Jini of the Magic Lamp, Glen Neilsen; Headman, Robert Hatch; Dragon, Jackie Leonard; Coolies and others, Molly Bricca, Dorothea Hooper and Rici Felsteiner.

CARMEL FOUNDATION NOTES

On Wednesday at 3:00 o'clock, Dr. Robert P. Parsons, a member of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Foundation, will give a Tahiti Travelogue. As a Captain, now retired, in the U.S. Navy Medical Corps, Dr. Parsons has had opportunity to visit not only Tahiti, but also Samoa and other of the Pacific islands. He is deeply interested in bird life of the South Pacific, and will include some account of his ornithological studies there. Following his talk Dr. Parsons will answer questions. At 4:00 o'clock tea will be served.

The May art exhibit at Town House will be that of Beulah Kosty (Mrs. M. J. Kosty) who with her husband has recently come to occupy their new home in Carmel. The show will be hung on Monday, May 2.

Ruth Warshawsky In Emotional Drama At The Players Circle

The Deep Blue Sea, Terence Rattigan's stirring new play, will open at the Golden Bough Players Circle tomorrow night for a run of several weekends. Director Don Gunderson has assembled an expert cast, headed by Ruth Warshawsky in the role made famous in New York by Margaret Sullivan and in London by a succession of leading players—Peggy Ashcroft, Celia Johnson and Googie Withers.

The local cast, in addition to Ruth Warshawsky, includes Morgan Stock, Gertrude Chappell, Arlette Starmer, John Samuels, Bill Clark, William Grant and Arthur McKee. Several of these are new to Peninsula audiences; all are players of experience.

Long runs both in London and New York attest the popularity of the play, an emotional drama of a complex woman who abandons a devoted and highly-placed husband for a simple young bouncer, who, by his own admission, is incapable of profound love. The author's contention is that in such a situation reasonable and logical solutions do not apply. His own solution provides an extraordinarily exciting and moving play, said to be ideally suited to in-the-round production.

The Deep Blue Sea will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

Monterey Peninsula Concert Association

Invites You To Join Now!

SEVENTEENTH SEASON, 1955 - 1956

This association is organized on a membership basis obtained in a one-week campaign. At close of campaign membership list is closed. NO SINGLE ADMISSIONS are sold for any concert. We guarantee to have three concerts and we hope to have more, as we have in past seasons, but this depends on the number joining. Artists are chosen by a local committee, at close of drive when budget is known, from WORLD FAMOUS ARTISTS. There is no deficit, we buy only what we have money on hand to pay for. We own a Baldwin Concert Grand Piano.

We have presented such artists as Igor Gorin, Trapp Family Singers, Gen. Platoff Don Cossacks, Mona Paulee, William Primrose, Mildred Dilling, Rose Bampton, Jesus Maria Sarmora, John Sebastian, Marina Svetlova Ballet, Nadine Conner, St. Louis Sinfonietta, Joseph Battista, Todd Duncan, Philharmonic Piano Quartet, Ervin Maszlo, James Pease, Tossy Spivakovsky, Vivian Della Chiesa, Eileen Farrell, Samuel Sorin, Dorothy Warenskjold, Janet Collins Ballet, De Paur's Infantry Chorus, Aldo Ciccolini, Theodor Uppman, Longines Symphonette, Vienna Academy Chorus, Szymon Goldberg, Musical Americana, Marisa Regules, Aldo Parisot, Theresa Green, Byron Janis, Lola Montes and many others.

Concerts will be held in the evenings at 8:15 in Pacific Grove High School. Exact dates are printed on back of membership cards which are mailed out in October at beginning of concert season.

Memberships are transferable. Adults are not admitted on student cards and two students cannot be admitted on one adult card.

Adult membership $6.00 Student membership $3.00

Drive for new members opens May 2nd and closes Saturday, May 7th, or as soon as all seats are sold. All seats were sold for the last eight seasons. Renewals are accepted beginning now.

WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

The telephone call that made Joanie's heart jump

Joan might be the girl next door. At 14, she's cute as anything. And you should have seen the look on her face the night Joe, one of the fellows in her class, called to invite her to the next school dance. Outwardly, Joanie seemed calm. But when her Dad nodded "yes" to her, she was almost speechless. After all—a first date happens but once. And when you stop to think of it, isn't it true that telephone calls herald many a big moment in our lives—reunions, weddings, births? Yet consider how little your telephone actually costs for all the ways it serves you. Isn't it one of today's best buys? Pacific Telephone works to make your telephone a bigger value every day.

An up-to-date telephone arrangement for your home

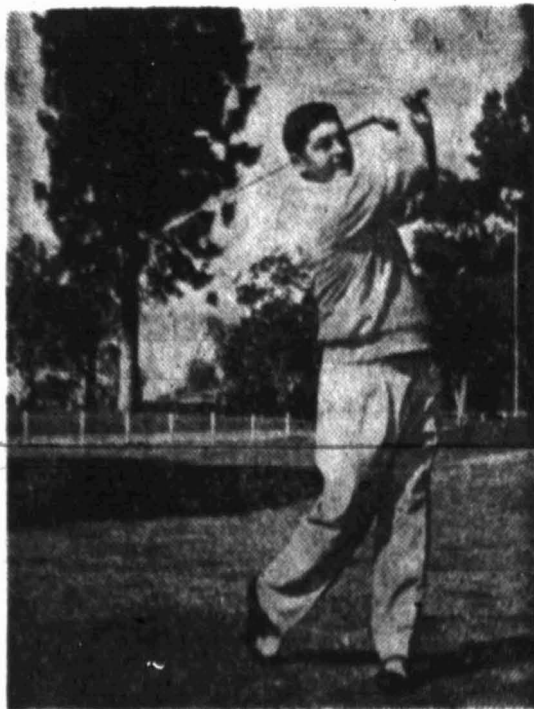

Folks who go in for modern living are finding how handy it is to have a telephone in each of the rooms they use a lot. Just think how much you'd enjoy a telephone in the kitchen where you can call or answer without leaving your work. Of course, one in the living room is practically a must. And in the bedroom a telephone adds comfort, security. With up-to-date telephone arrangements, you save time. You save steps. You have privacy for your calls. And you can enjoy the convenience of added telephones for only a little more than you pay now. Why not call us and talk it over soon.

North Meets South

This coming weekend some two hundred Telephone Company golfers and their wives will converge on the Monterey Peninsula for a weekend of golf and social activities. The basis for this is the annual North vs. South Golf Tournament. The golfers from the northern area will compete against those of the southern area for a perpetual trophy.

the turn of the century when the old Arts and Crafts was opened. Augie and Fred rented the site of the former Wilder and Jones building from James Doud and then, with the help of Thomas Elston, Carmel architect, planned the center, which will house nearly a dozen groups of craftsmen, each in their own walled area surrounding a central covered court where Carmelites may gather for coffee and doughnuts, chat around the fireplace and watch their fellow townsmen work at their crafts.

The front of the building facing San Carlos Street is to be covered by a mural painted by Mary Miller, depicting the progressive history of the Monterey Peninsula using the authentic faces of the leaders in the development of the area. As yet only the first panel on the southernmost part of the wall is finished. It shows Father Serra surrounded by Carmel Indians with Carmel Mission in the background. Each era will have distinctive architecture of the period in the background. The next panel will feature De Anza. Work on this mural will be in progress from six months to a year.

A wooden lamp-post carved by Clarence Bates centers the entrance court portraying waves of the ocean from which will arise a large pelican sculpture in wood. Attractive planting boxes surround the post.

Entering the inner, or main court, the left wall of the entrance is covered by a pictorial map of the Peninsula also painted by Mary Miller, while on the right is placed another of the planting boxes.

The central court, although covered, gives the effect of the outdoors due to the highly placed clerestory windows which let in the light and sky. The open construction of the roof is painted in a bright coral color and a large round free-standing fireplace is placed to the north with a serving bar along the east wall of the room. The center is filled with small tables and chairs where visitors may sit and drink coffee and eat doughnuts.

The separate work areas, each with an open front, surround this central court on three sides. Each craftsman has been allotted a bare space and has decorated his stall to suit his individual taste. The arrangement and decoration of each stall alone is worth a visit to the Center.

Those who will occupy these separate working and display areas are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell and their daughter, Mrs. John Westover, showing ceramics and copper and silver jewelry. Janet Redding, Alice Allcott and Adrienne Engle, silver jewelry and all types of screen printing and later lapidary work; Clarence Bates and Push Walker in another stall, the first doing woodcarving and the latter ceramics. Both will display their paintings on the walls. Evelyn Scardigli will do metal jewelry and Marion Shevik, leather work, in a stall designed by Remo Scardigli. Louise Boyer will conduct a school of arts and crafts in the next area. Erica Franke and Glenn Minshall will produce and display tile work for murals in their stall. Next month June Dickey will move into her area with Doris Ormsby and make silk screen designs for fabrics and other purposes. The Carmel Work Center will move from its present location into the new building. This shop is a selling outlet for all the craftsmen of the county. Mary Miller has a studio for her painting and tile designing and production, and lastly Fred Klepich and August Nieto will operate an arts and crafts supply shop so that all materials may be obtained within the Center.

These same men will, for the time being run the coffee and doughnut bar selling doughnuts from Carmel's Donut Den run by Pete Beck.

At least one of the ceramists will have in operation a Dickinson kiln. These kilns are made in Los Angeles by the firm of Henry Dickinson, who grew up in Carmel and is the son of Henry Dickinson of Carmel Point.

Micaela Ducasse To Teach At S. F. Women's College

Micaela Ducasse, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Martinez and the late Xavier Martinez, has been appointed to the staff of the art department of Lone Mountain, San Francisco College for Women, and will give a course in painting and drawing during the summer session and continue as an instructor in the same department in September when the regular session begins. In the meantime her husband, Ralph, is busy painting, as he has requests for pictures for various shows throughout the country, since the singular notice which his picture received this summer in the exhibition of fifty young American painters' work gathered by the Guggenheim Art Project. This work was centrally placed in the New York showing and drew comment from Time Magazine, The New Yorker, Art Digest and Art News. A color reproduction was published in the July issue of Vogue and the picture is now travelling with the show through the United States. Ralph, who was locally better known as a musician, continued his art studies at the University of California, graduating with a master's degree. Not to be outdone by their parents, the two daughters of the Ducasses, Jeanne, 10, and Monique, 8, are pursuing their artistic bents. The older prefers art and the younger music.

Art Gallery Review . . .

By DORA HAGEMEYER

In the Beardsley Memorial Room at the Carmel Art Association Galleries will be found at present one of the most exciting exhibits of the year, a one-man show by Patricia Cunningham, whose work, though well known to Carmel, is always full of surprise and aesthetic delight. We have eagerly awaited the result of her trip to Italy and here it is, all and more than we could have expected. The magnificent architecture, the mellowness of antiquity, the sense of greatness and scope, these are the impressions which have enriched the vision of an already distinguished painter and carried her further towards her chosen objective. There is development and growth in this work—a strength which does not deny delicacy and effervescence, a solidity which is also somehow evanescent. How does she achieve this peculiar, atmospheric, dream-like quality? It is all so capable, firm and well-drawn, and yet it rises through a shimmer of light and color, given outline by those deft, sure strokes. How is it possible to portray the concrete reality with such lightness of vision? One goes back again and again to these luminous paintings. Stand a little way off and see how the structures lift from the earth and remain suspended weightlessly in an interplay of translucent color. The great Paris Opera House rises above the tiny figures of the street, a shimmering fairy tale of dappled colors and light, fantastic yet real. Spanish Steps rise massive in structure yet transparent as glass. The Trevi Fountain with its bubbling, splashing water, airy as a skirt-dancer, towers above the minute figures of humanity at its base. Piazza Quirinale, a most original piece of work, attests the versatility of the artist and her amazing control of her material, the simplest elements being used to achieve a dramatic directness and vigor.

Giotto's Tower, the Ninth Century Tower of Caorli, and the Little Sixth Century Kings of San Marco are solid as granite yet full of allure and oblique perception. The works of man dwarf their creator and look down upon him with a certain whimsical superiority. The white Oxen of Deruta and San Gemignano rock their curved horns in a dream-like pattern, beautifully drawn and sleepy-faced. Henley Regatta is another delightful painting, the arches of the bridge completing their own circle in the water and the rowers with their even strokes gliding smoothly across the green blue surface.

Fragments of Rome gathers the broken glimpses of greatness into one long horizontal panel, an achievement of composition which would be the despair of a lesser artist. Sisters of Charity, using the delicate crisp lines of the linen head dress as a half invisible frame for the calm faces, the distant cathedral rising in the background, creates a religious atmosphere without being ponderous. Venice, with the gondolas, poles and old pink facades is an unusual glimpse of a much pictured city. Piazza Minerva replies to the textures of the age with their own mellow surfaces, the sprightly carriages wheeling along the dignified old streets creating almost conscious motifs of decoration. Courtyard in Venice, one of the outstanding gems of the collection, is a little masterpiece of color and light.

Several smaller paintings, the two mountain scenes, sheer and simple (yet how expertly handled in their complex naivety!), the San Francisco scenes and the fine Chinatown vistas bring our own land into this remarkable and stimulating exhibit. One would go far to find anything to surpass this work. Its value will undoubtedly grow with the years.

Patricia Cunningham's one-man show will be up in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association Galleries until May 1. Then a series of children's exhibitions are scheduled for the month of May. Starting off with Sunset, grammar schools throughout the Peninsula will exhibit their work for a week each.

WATER-COLOR

*These lines that hint of trees are more than trees.
They stand in angular lines against the light
With pleading arms upraised, and bended knees,
And leafage less of substance than of light.
The shadows in a sequence half oblique
Move from the palest grey to purple-brown;
Cast with a grace more careless than unique
The strange white light sifts in and shimmers down.*

*This is no country consonate with earth—
Ephemeral, dream-like, landscape of the mind,
Yet built of forms familiar as a stone.
More than a brush and color gave it birth—
More than an image inwardly defined,
This place, created, answers and is known.*

—DANIEL HAWTHORNE

THE SEEING BLIND

*She walked where robins were but never saw
Their lift of flight. The butterfly could find
Sweet nectar for its thirst where flowers twined
But this would slip her sight. She heard the caw
Of thieving crow, yet passed the hidden awe
That petaled in a rose. She let her mind
Condemn without a qualm. Her heart was blind . . .
Her reason knew no compensating law.*

*A lift of song is scattered to the wall
Where roses drop their wealth of fragrant spray.
Their gold is warm with sun where stems thrust tall
Against the thorn that hedges in her way.
She holds the hurt, and hears the harsh notes fall
Content to center night against the day.*

—MARY GUSTAFSON

LATE THAW

*Stand beneath a peach tree,
Lay your palm along its trunk.
Feel the young sap faintly
Pulse to stems December-shrunk.*

*April swells the slim bud,
Winter-shrivelled, darkness-nursed . . .
Sorrow parches heart-blood
Till faith flows to thaw its thirst.*

Stolen Fruit Review . . .

By KIPPY STUART

If you want an evening free from care, where no sordid problem will be presented to you to solve, where nothing save fun is in order, spend that evening at California's First Theater in Monterey. "Stolen Fruit," the current attraction, is melodrama at its best. The suspense will grip you and you will worry to death about the 'maiden in distress', but have no fears; everything will turn out all right. The hero will save the maiden, the villain will be exposed and the abandoned child will be restored to the wayward mother's arms. "Stolen Fruit" is melodrama at its best; the plot is short and to the point. In fact, "Stolen Fruit" is one of the best plays I have yet seen at the First Theater.

The director, Rhea Diveley, has selected her cast expertly and has implemented with skill and restraint, an old story with an up-to-date fillip. Marjorie Munk, as the "wifed maid", had a difficult role to portray. For an actress to work herself up to the point of hysteria, as Marjorie did, and still keep the role within the bounds of reality, calls for more than casual acting. John Forbes, as Count Philippe, is all that one requires for leading man. John's poise and timing, his handsome and winning personality, won the audience in the very first scene. And when John Forbes let forth his great voice in the Olio, the audience realized that here was not only a splendid actor but a singer of merit.

Florence Venn, the kittenish old maid, gave the audience a rib-tickling performance with her splendid nonsense and her volatile personality. Madeleine Hicks surprised her friends by playing the hard-boiled school mistress. William Kaye was the bright and shining spot of the evening. As master of ceremonies, William gave forth with some fancy French that I am told is authentic. When William met up with Joan Gay in the "Apache" dance, Joan played right up to him. When Joan "knocked William for a loop," the illusion of the French bistro was secure.

Kreigh Trevvett, the lost child, deserves special mention, for the young lady gave good account of herself and here we have the embryo actress. Charles Thomas created the stage set for the Olio by turning cold walls into the illusion of French charm. Kay Knudsen's lighting effects were subdued and mellow, and Rhoda Johnson's costumes surpassed her established record for excellence and authenticity. I couldn't help chuckling at the old adage, "History repeats itself", for the bouffant dresses worn by the young and colorful ushers, were replicas of Rhoda's costumes of a by-gone era. Ettore Piraino satisfied the audience's concept of villain. Slit-eyed and pompous, Ettore glared at his world.

The supporting cast was well chosen: Russell Eddy, Laverne Seeman, Mack Halsted, Tissa Eddy. The children in the cast did exceptionally well. They were: Kathy McReynolds, Laurie Sheehy, Shirley Fain and Kreigh Trevvett.

Can you imagine a "strip-tease" in our conventional community? Just go to the First Theater and see a strip-tease that will hold you breathless. For goodness sake! What is coming off next? Y'Vonne Ballew, who I am told is internationally famous as a "lady-undresser-in-public," had every one worried. The absurdity of the placards plastered on her middle, kept the audience in an uproar and when finally Y'Vonne came down to what appeared to be "the very last stitch", the audience consisted of one great, universal blush. But Y'Vonne fooled them, for there she stood, a striking blonde lady, in full evening dress as conventional as you please.

I heard many remarks to the effect that the Olio far surpassed any of its predecessors. There were so many superior acts and the singing was unusually good. Stolen Fruit gives promise for a long and successful run.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

I have just received an advance copy of a book that is making history in the publishing world. It is my hope that it will also make history in the conservation world. Its title is This Is Dinosaur and its sub-title Echo Park Country and its Magic Rivers.

The book is being published by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., one of New York's best-known publishing firms, and it will be on sale in bookstores before very long. It sells for $5.00 and there is no question but that any book lover, whether or not he is fond of the out-of-doors and is a friend of the national parks, will get his money's worth, if he buys a copy.

The editor, and the author of the first chapter entitled The Marks of Human Passage, is Wallace Stegner, a nationally known writer who is particularly well-known in this section of the country as Professor of Creative Writing at Stanford University. Before describing the rest of the book let me give my reasons for my two introductory statements.

I said that it was making publishing history. Mr. Knopf, who besides being the active head of his own publishing firm, is also chairman of the National Parks Advisory Board, has so great a personal interest in saving Dinosaur National Monument from the dam building threat that he has broken all records in putting the book on the market at the earliest possible moment. The reason for this is that the dam proponents are using almost superhuman energy in attempting to rush the bill through Congress without adequate consideration or debate. Mr. Knopf has felt that the book is one of the most effective answers to their arguments and should be available to the public at once.

I said also that I hoped that it would make history in the conservation world. If it helps at all in killing the iniquitous proposal to invade the national parks system with another pork-barrel dam, the most pretentious and well-financed proposal of that kind that the country has ever seen, then it will indeed deserve a prominent place in the conservation Hall of Fame.

Being an ex-librarian myself of some 35 years experience, I feel that I am not being biased in saying that the book is as fine an example of the typographic art as I have seen in a long time in a book of that kind. It is 7 1/4 x 10 1/4 inches in size and is illustrated by eight pages in full color and 30 pages of black and white half-tones. Seventeen of the latter are photographs by Philip Hyde, who will be remembered by Carmel people for his residence here in 1952 and 1953.

The book jacket, which always gives the first impression of any book, has on each face a magnificent color photograph of the Echo Park country by Martin Litton, and the design accompanying them is very harmoniously arranged both as to color and typography. It is a very handsome book from any point of view.

There are 93 pages of text, not counting the photographs. Each chapter is written by a specialist in his field. Following Mr. Stegner's initial chapter, there are chapters on the geology of the region, on the wildlife, on the ancient Indian inhabitants, on the river canyons, on the beautiful scenery, and finally one by Mr. Knopf himself on The National Park Idea.

In bringing a brief description of this kind to a close I can't do better than quote the final paragraph of Mr. Knopf's closing chapter:

"Dinosaur deserves to be more visited. If it were, there is no doubt that the American people, who can recognize a superlative thing when they see it, would once again, as in the past, line up in favor of the organic law of the National Park Service and the dedicated and devoted men who run it. That is all it would take, that democratic groundswell, to insure that Dinosaur and the other superlative places will be passed on, unimpaired, to our grandchildren's grandchildren."

NEW CARMEL RESIDENT

Permanent Carmel residents now are Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Broadus who moved here following the retirement of Dr. Broadus from the practice of medicine in Stockton. They arrived here in January but have been away a great deal as Dr. Broadus is the director of postgraduate activities for the California Medical Association and therefore, does a good deal of

Corner Stone Ceremonies for New Church May 8

The Carmel Presbyterian Church is sending out community-wide invitations to all who can be present on Mother's Day, Sunday, May 8 at 11:00 o'clock, when there will be laid the cornerstone of the new church now being built at Junipero and Mountain View in Carmel.

The main speaker of the day will be General Robert D. McClure. Many churches and service clubs will be represented.

The church roll of membership, the Men's Club and Women's Guild membership and the current issues of the press will be placed in the cornerstone, together with various symbols of the church's history and Dr. Rogers' register of his children's Bible class.

Committees on program and on letters from Dr. Rogers' former churches in Ft. Madison, Iowa, Kansas City, Missouri and San Francisco are actively engaged now in setting up the entire program.

Dr. Rogers will preach this Sunday morning, May 1, at 11:00 o'clock on the subject God's Protecting Care When Life Has You In A Corner. Jimmy Griffin will be the soloist at this service.

Century Club Has First Meeting

Recently formed as a men's social organization dedicated to companionship, the pursuit of knowledge and the enjoyment of culture is the Monterey Century Club. Among the fifty charter members are the following men from Carmel, Dr. Remsen Bird, John J. Alexander, Eldon Dedini, Stuyvesant Fish, Martin Flavin, travelling about the state and is accompanied by his "co-pilot", Mrs. Broadus.

Charles Fuller, Harrison Godwin, Stuart Haldorn, General William R. Gruber, Hank Ketcham, Hartland Law, Dr. Walter B. Layton, Harold Mack, Malcolm S. Millard, James W. A. Smith, Robert Stanton, Noel Sullivan, Lloyd Tevis and J. David Zellerbach.

The club is to occupy the Casa Amesti, historic home of the late Mrs. Frances Elkins on Polk Street in Monterey.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK.

The Harrison Memorial Library will soon be receiving several new periodicals through their cooperation with the Monterey County Library. After a short time, which must be allowed for the publishers to put in motion their various order processing, the library will receive Craft Horizons, Country Life, Changing Times (The Kiplinger Magazine), Harper's Bazaar, and High Fidelity. These five periodicals, each one first rate in its field, will prove valuable additions to the over 80 periodicals already being received at the library.

Another periodical which is now coming in at the library is the American Heritage, edited by Bruce Catton. The library subscription began with volume six, number two, the February number, which was checked in this week. The peculiar thing about American Heritage is that it was issued in hard covers beginning with volume six, number one, which came out last November. It is a quarterly publication. This first hard cover issue sold out in a matter of two or three weeks time and is now unobtainable. Because the library is eager to have a complete set of the hard cover issues, anyone having a copy of the first number, which he would like to give to the library, will receive most grateful thanks.

We have three copies of the report of the Monterey Peninsula Crime Study Commission, which is entitled, Crime and Delinquency on the Monterey Peninsula. These were gifts to the library by the commission and are already meeting a demand and circulating freely. If you wish to read all or part

VACATION PINE CONE

Going away for the summer, or a month, or two weeks?

You don't have to wait until your return to find out what's going on in Carmel. Your Pine Cone will be sent to you at no extra charge if you will phone us your change of address, or drop us a card before you leave.

If you have been getting your Pine Cone from one of our newsboys, or buying it on the stands, a subscription taken out for your vacation address will be changed over to your box number or R. F. D. here when you return.

of this report, please ask at the desk to learn whether or not a copy is available at once or how soon you may obtain one.

Another gift which is finding an enthusiastic audience is They Thought They Were Free by Milton Mayer. This book has been described as "must" reading for all of us who are interested in world affairs.

This library is now dressing up its new books in transparent plastic covers. Besides more than doubling the life of the books, they make them much more attractive. The other evening just before 5:00 o'clock, the catalog department sent up 64 of these plastic-covered books. As an experiment, a watch was kept over them and it was learned that all 64 had been charged out before 5:00 o'clock the next afternoon. Never underestimate the power of an attractive cover to sell a book! And besides that, they were all good books!

Kiwanis Sponsor May Trout Derby

Carmel Kiwanis invite the Peninsula to join them in a Fish Derby the first three weeks of May. President Don Sands announced this week. It will be held at the Bisnett Trout Farm on Schulte Road in Carmel Valley. Fishermen entering will register at Bisnett's, their catches counting toward prizes to be awarded at the Grand Picnic and Fish Fry on Sunday May 22 from noon to sundown.

At the picnic, the public, wives, kids and dogs are invited to a potluck dinner. Fishing, swimming, games for all ages are offered, along with coffee and cold drinks to go with the potluck contribution.

The Kiwanis Lobos and Lobo-ettes here challenge any amateur ball team to a six-inning game. Horseshoes, hole in one, and other contests of skill and brawn will culminate in an egg throw and cock fight.

President Sands has appointed as Derby Committee, Hal Armor,

Bob Connell and Gene Harrah, with most of the club assisting in handling swimming, games, fishing, vittles and prizes. Profits will swell the Kiwanis Charity Funds.

Further information is available from Hal Armor, 7-4214.

IT TAKES A LOT OF DOING

To Provide a Safe, Dependable Water Supply

Water, of course, is free to all, but gathering, storing, purifying, and delivering it requires thought, effort, time, equipment, and money . . . the reason for your water bill.

However, this water bill, though a charge, actually represents a saving, when considered from a certain point of view. Three examples will illustrate the point. If, for instance, you should drill your own well (after finding the right place to drill it), equip it with pumping machinery, and build a storage tank in your backyard, you would run into considerable expense.

Or if you should load a truck with barrels, take them to a spring or river, fill up and haul the water home, you would find the job costly and tiresome. Or if you should install a roof collecting system (good only when it rains) as they do in Bermuda, you would find yourself without water in the summer time. And, of course, to the costs involved in any of these enterprises you would have to add some medical expense since water obtained in such ways is not always safe for consumption.

However, it's not necessary for you to do any of these complicated things . . . your water system does everything for you, saving you money, time, toil, and trouble. Investors in company securities furnish money for new construction, and the well-drilling, pipe-laying, trench-digging, bulldozing, storage, and maintenance crews . . . the engineering, testing, meter-reading, and accounting staffs are on the job every day seeing to it that you get a continual flow of good safe water . . . at the lowest possible cost consistent with good management.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

God's infinitely wise and loving government of man will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment."

From the King James Version of the Bible will be read the account of Christ Jesus' healing of the impotent man at the pool of Bethesda, including the following passage: "Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee" (John 5:14).

The following correlative passage will be among those read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (412:1-4): "The great fact that God lovingly governs all, never punishing aught but sin, is your standpoint, from which to advance and destroy the human fear of sickness."

The Golden Text is from Job (5:17): "Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty."

Townsend in Salzburg

Former Carmelites, Mrs. Frank Townsend and her daughter, Charlotte, are now living in Salzburg, Germany, where the latter is the attractive new director of the Mirabell Service Club for Army personnel. After leaving Carmel Charlotte first attended Stanford University, majoring in sociology. Then with her mother and her sister, Donna, travelled to Europe and lived in Cannes, Davos, Paris and Heidelberg. She continued her studies at the University of Zurich, where she was awarded a doctor's degree in Comparative Literature. Since 1951 she has been with Special Services. Donna is also working in the same organization and is a director in Linz, Austria.

Corner Club Pal Dinner

Forty strong, Corner Club pals and their guests met Friday evening at Holiday Inn for their annual party. They were seated at a U-shaped table centered with tulips and three-candle flower arrangements.

President Alice Bentley acted as master of ceremonies for the program which followed dinner. The theme for this was A Magic Ball, chosen to reveal hidden talents of the club members. Entertainment began with a piano duet by Eujane Johnson and June Turner, followed by the Barber Shop Quartet, Bill Ewing, Floyd Kimball, Jay Huffman and Warren Siebel, accompanied by Alice Bentley. Mrs. Elmarie Ewing gave a comedy skit. Reuben Johnson, a comic trumpet solo, accompanied by June Turner. Dorothy Gunter, Arvilla Josimovic and Laverne Stoddard also presented a comedy skit. Glen Goodwill told of his world travels. The group joined in community singing before the closing number, Home Sweet Home, played with variations by Eujane Johnson and June Turner.

Here for the spring display of wild flowers are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Shaw of Vancouver, British Columbia. This is an annual visit made by the Shaws to see their friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilbert, and to admire spring in California.

Swedish Art at De Young

Seldom seen Swedish paintings will be on exhibition at the M. H. De Young Museum in San Francisco from May 8 through May 29. This exhibition comprises the work of Sweden's young abstract painters, shown for the first time in America.

Stamp Auction

The Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club will hold an auction Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Carmel High School.

Bill McBride Home

Carmel looked fine to Bill McBride this week in spite of the rather wet welcome it gave him after over a year in Korea with the Marines. He left on Wednesday for Humboldt County and a visit with his father, Rex McBride, on their ranch near Eureka.

Ursula Merrell Married

Announcements were received last week by friends of the former Ursula Dubree Merrell of Carmel, telling of her marriage in Long Beach on March 26 to Joseph Mark Posner. The couple are now at home in San Francisco at 2080 Fifteenth Avenue.

Fourth Child for Montgomerys

Third son and fourth child is Timothy, newest addition to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Montgomery of Carmel, who was born on April 17 at the Peninsula Community Hospital and weighed six pounds, four ounces. His sister is Christine Montgomery and his two brothers are Michael and Johnny.

Rosses in Europe

Word from Mrs. Margaret Ross and her daughter, Helen, is that after leaving Carmel last August they have divided their time between the British Isles and Germany. They first explored some of the remote spots of the Scottish Highlands in heather-blooming time, then attended the Edinburgh Festival and, Helen, who has attended the Carmel schools since the third grade is now at a boarding school in England in Buckinghamshire. During the Christmas holidays she and her mother visited Oxford and Bath and the Easter vacation was spent in the Lowlands of Scotland and on the Isle of Arran. This summer they will be together on the continent.

Visitors for the J. E. Harrises

Last week was a busy one for Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Harris as they entertained both Mr. Harris' daughter, Mrs. Lillis Irvine of Saratoga and Mrs. Harris' son, Captain Raymond Riddle of Washington, D.C. Captain Riddle is at present stationed at the Pentagon Building where he is in communications. During the last war he took the first troops over the China-Burma road. At the close of the war he was sent to Heidelberg, Germany, where he spent three and a half years, and then to Italy. Next he came back to this country and the Pentagon but was again sent to Italy and stationed in Naples for a year and a half. Now he and his wife and two children make their home in Washington but plan to live in Carmel following Captain Riddle's retirement in five years.

Martin Schultz Born

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Schultz of Carmel are the parents of a son, and first child, born on April 17 at the Peninsula Community Hospital. Mr. Schultz is employed as an architectural draftsman at a local engineering firm, having come here from Santa Cruz where the new baby's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schultz and Mrs. Ruth Morton still live.

Audubon Society Trip

Sunday morning the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will have a field trip and annual meeting at the William Hatton ranch. Members are to meet on the Salinas highway at the Corral de Tierra road (approximately 10 miles from either Monterey or Salinas) at 8:00 o'clock. All are to bring a picnic lunch. The business meeting and election of officers will take place after lunch.

Son for the Cole Westons

Cole and Helen Weston of Garapata Canyon have a third son, born April 19, who has been given the fine Welsh name of Rhys. His older brothers are Kim and Ivor and he is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Prosser of Carmel, Mrs. Flora Weston also of Carmel and famed photographer, Edward Weston, of Carmel Highlands.

should fuses blow in a new home?

If you're building or remodeling, insist on adequate wiring!

Four out of five houses today—new homes included—are unable to handle today's electrical demands because of inadequate wiring. Fuses blow, lights flicker, and there aren't enough outlets for all the appliances and lighting fixtures.

To make sure the home you're planning to build or remodel has the right wiring—for all your appliances and lighting—call in a qualified electrical contractor. Easy payment plans for modernized wiring are available at most of California's leading banks and lending agencies. Make the most of modern electric living with a dependable, adequate wiring system.

Insist on a Certificate of Adequate Wiring from your builder or contractor. It's your proof of a first-rate job!

Electricity is cheap in California!

Lee Laugenour is Married

Guests of Mrs. Annetta Lee Laugenour last weekend were her son, Lee, and his bride of two weeks, the former Joan Koenig of Lodi.

The marriage of the young couple took place in the First Congregational Church of Lodi. The bride, given in marriage by her father, John J. Koenig, wore a gown of imported white chantilly lace and tulle. The bodice was of lace and the same lace was inserted in panels in the double tulle overskirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls in small heart shapes, and she carried phylanopeses, lilies-of-the-valley and fleur de amore centered by a white orchid arranged over a white Bible.

The attendants, Mrs. Robert Laugenour of San Jose, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Miss Joan Temple and Miss Beverly Ridenour of Lodi were dressed alike in ballerina length gowns of pink nylon net fashioned in off-shoulder design with the necklines outlined with white medallions. Lace picture hats completed their costumes and they carried bouquets of pink carnations.

Robert Laugenour was best man for his brother and the ushers were Jim Girvin, Pete Peterson, Jim Marco and Karl Schultz of San Jose and Don Koenig, brother of the bride. Bill Trieglaff of Sacramento sang The Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Koenig, mother of the bride, witnessed her daughter's marriage dressed in an ensemble of ecru lace and champagne satin trimmed with rhinestones. Her small matching lace hat was studded with pearls and rhinestones and her corsage was of green cymbidiums.

Mrs. Annetta Lee Laugenour of Carmel, mother of the bridegroom, donned a pink and grey flowered paper taffeta gown with a white background with which she wore a white orchid.

The Gold Room of the Hotel Lodi was the scene of the reception attended by 350 guests. Decorations were pink and white camellias and bridal wreath and other white flowers. Donna Lee of Monterey passed the guest book and both the groom's fraternity, Delta Upsilon, and the bride's sorority, Sigma Kappa, serenaded the newlyweds during the reception.

Lee and his wife are now settled in San Jose, where he is employed by the S and W Food Company and Mrs. Laugenour is a kindergarten teacher at Lincoln Glen School. The young people met at San Jose State College which Lee, the son of Mrs. Annetta Lee Laugenour of Carmel and C. W. Laugenour of Oakland, attended following his graduation from Carmel High School. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William T. Lee of Monterey and his great-grandmother is Mrs. Mary DeSerpa of Carmel Valley.

Hurrah for Robert Jones

The Monterey Peninsula Airport Building, designed by Robert Jones of Carmel, has been declared by aeronautical authorities as the most efficient in the country and the design is included in an exhibition entitled San Francisco Bay Region Architecture, a Current Report, which will be shown in the museums and art galleries in the major cities of the United States during the next 18 months. The tri-panelled model of the airport is currently being shown at the San Francisco Museum of Art but will be moved at the end of next week to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.

Lloyd Mills Rides Again

For the first time Carmel will be represented in the annual ride of Los Rancheros Visitadores, a national riding group which starts from Santa Barbara and relives, briefly, the life of the early California Dons who each year rode to the missions and camped and visited friends.

Lloyd Langdon Mills of Carmel will start on this trek on Saturday of next week. He and his wife came to live in Carmel Woods last September from Morgan Hill where Mr. Mills has ranching interests.

Hugh Lynn Cayce to Speak

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel Girl Scout House, Hugh Lynn Cayce, authority on parapsychology, will speak on The Challenge of a Modern Seer, the implication of the work of his father, Edgar Cayce. Elsie Sechrist will tell her personal memories of Edgar Cayce who was known as the Miracle Man of Virginia Beach. Hugh Cayce has made an exhaustive world study of extra-sensory perception throughout history in order to understand the particular faculty which his father possessed.

A Son for Sam Colburn

Most exciting man in Carmel last Saturday, April 23, was artist, Sam Colburn. That morning at 10:15 o'clock his wife, Grace, gave birth at the Peninsula Community Hospital to an eight-pound son. The baby has been named Bolton Trent, the first name being an old one in his father's family. Grandmother is Mrs. Dorothy Meredith and his half-sister is Teryl McBride and his young half-brother, Ritchie McBride.

May Fellowship Day

United Church Women of the Monterey Peninsula will meet for "brunch" on Friday, May 6, at 11:00 o'clock at the Methodist Church in Pacific Grove, for a May Fellowship Day program. This day is observed throughout the United States by United Church Women groups made up from more than a score of different denominations. Reservations for the meal must be made with the U.C.W. representative in one's church organization by Wednesday. All women interested in church work are invited to attend.

The afternoon meeting at 1:30 o'clock, will consist of a panel discussion on the responsibility of the Christian family, by an Army chaplain, a representative of the County Probation department, a Chinese mother, and an American mother in the Peninsula area. Presentation of religious work among migrant families will be made at the business meeting. Mrs. R. O. Hazelrigg of Seaside is president in charge of the meeting.

Honor for Nat Owings

The U.S. Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, which was designed by the firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill of San Francisco, has been selected for an award of merit in the seventh annual competition of the American Institute of Architects for outstanding American architecture. The competition was held in Washington, D.C. and nearly three hundred entries were received. Nathaniel Owings of this firm and his wife, Margaret, have a house at Carmel Highlands and spend as much time as possible here with their children. Mr. Owings' firm also received another award for the U.S. Navy Service Schools, Great Lakes, Illinois.

Gargiulo at Stanford

Dick Gargiulo, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Gargiulo of Carmel, was mustered out of the Army just in time to catch a plane which would get him in Palo Alto for registration day of the spring quarter at Stanford. He was stationed first in Korea during his 21 months' service and then in Hawaii where his brother, Bill, and his wife are now living.

Leidigs to Kentucky

Tuesday saw Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leidig board a plane bound, first for Chicago and some business, and then on to Kentucky for all the fanfare and excitement of the Derby at Churchill Downs.

Honor Roll at Stevenson School

Carmel boys who made the honor roll at the Robert Louis Stevenson School for the Fourth Report Period are John Gross, Walter Gross, Richard Spaulding, David Tyson, Laddy Fletcher and Gordon Von Richter.

Henry Williams Home

More surgery on his hip completed, Henry Williams is recuperating at his home this week after several days spent in the Community Hospital. He has recently returned from a trip to Richmond, Virginia. Mona, his wife, was delightfully surprised to find her name prominently displayed this week on the front cover of the May issue of McCall's magazine, drawing attention to her story, Stopover in Kansas. She also has another story, Gift for Ginny, in the current issue of American Magazine.

Dr. Moore's House

The diamond-shaped house of Dr. Ernest Nelson Moore of Yankee Point won an award of merit in the recent competition of the American Institute of Architects for outstanding American architecture. The unusually shaped house was designed by the firm of Ansen and Allen of San Francisco and is built of granite boulders from the beach below the house and natural redwood.

Ewell Coles Have Son

Born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on April 18 was the husky son of Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Cole who weighed eight pounds, four ounces and has been named after his father. Two sisters, Marilyn and Peggy, and two brothers, Jim and Mike were on the welcoming committee for the new arrival when he went home and he has the unique distinction of being the 43rd great-grandchild of Mrs. Jessie Askew of Carmel. His grandmothers are Mrs. Millie Funchess and Mrs. Cora Cole, who lives in San Antonio, Texas.

Captain and Mrs. Howard Parents

Barbara Ruth, born on April 11 at the Fort Ord Hospital, is the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Robert Howard who are living in Carmel while Captain Howard studies Hungarian at the Army Language School. The young lady has a brother, Stephen, who is six years old.

Carmel Portraits . . .

they, along with the ashes, eventually found their way out under the manzanita bushes. It didn't escape the Marshal and he was very severe with me. I actually thought I was going to be arrested until I caught a twinkle in the Swedish eye.

So many of those pioneers of the early days have now gone that we can speak of them only as memories. There was John Jordan, Pine Inn owner, who sat in his lobby a great part of the time and read the classics. He always had a quotation from Shakespeare when anyone approached him. He was very civic-minded and served for some time on the Town Council. He planted and maintained, at his own expense, the center park space from Lincoln to Monte Verde. He subsidized plays at the Forest Theater and took in as non-paying guests many of the actors that were imported for special performances. In fact, I don't think anyone knows of all the kindly acts that John Jordan performed.

I can't leave out Dave Nixon who served in so many capacities to keep Carmel happy and contented. He was night watchman for seven years, patrolling the streets of the business section and trying doors to see if they were locked—which they seldom were—an old Carmel failing and an ever-present one. He was janitor of the Post Office for a long time and of the Sunset School for 20 years. At 11:00 o'clock he locked up the Post Office, first putting out the Town Dog Pal who liked to sleep there and greet the newcomers who came to get their evening mail out of their boxes.

There was no so-called juvenile delinquency then, but sometimes there were harmless pranks which Dave settled in his stride. He tells of one Halloween when Toopers Leidig and some other kids were roaming around the business section which Dave was patrolling. He noticed that some overripe tomatoes had been thrown around rather promiscuously and he asked Toopers if he had any tomatoes on his person. Toopers cast an angelic look in Dave's direction. "No," he said. "Nary a tomato." The boys of the group confirmed this but Toopers looked fat around the waistline so Dave walked over and gave the kid a gentle punch in the tummy. Toopers turned and fled and the last Dave saw of him was a flying figure of a boy dripping tomato juice which ran down his pants and left a trail on the sidewalk.

Dave is now gravely ill and those who knew him as a kindly and watchful guardian of our peace wish him well.

Schlepps Fight Elements

Wayne and Katie Schlepp, just returned to Carmel from their honeymoon trip, battled the weatherman all the way to Aberdeen, South Dakota, where he gave them a respite until they decided to come home, when once again he trotted out his effects of sound and fury. On their way east they stopped at Scottsdale, Arizona, and spent a night with Paul and Maria Ruthling who formerly lived in Carmel. In Santa Fe they had lunch with the Howard Bopsts and then started the bout with the weather. A dust storm followed them from New Mexico to Wyoming where they dropped the dust and picked up the driving snow of the "black blizzard". Two days of Corporal Schlepp's precious leave were wasted in Casper, Wyoming, while 22 inches of snow fell. This necessitated a detour across the state of Nebraska to Aberdeen where the weatherman smiled for 11 days while Katie met her husband's relatives and the couple were entertained extensively. Then back to the battle with the elements in reverse, this time—dust, blizzards and a cloud-burst, all the way home to Carmel.

Woman's Club Last Meeting

Mrs. Rhea Diveley will present the last of the year's Carmel Woman's Club programs on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Hjordis Kittel Parker, world traveler, will show her color film, Saga of Norse Life. Mrs. Parker is a naturalized American citizen and has lived in this country since her early childhood when her father served in the Norwegian Diplomatic Service here. After World War II the tragedy that her native country had suffered made her feel that she must do something to further international understanding between her two countries, so she began her career of film lecturing. She went to many out of the way places for her pictures so that she would be able to give her audiences a true picture of Norway and its people and how they are disciplined from infancy to old age by the challenge of their harsh but magnificent country.

Mrs. George Hollenbeck, as chairman of the tea committee, has the following serving with her: Miss Alice Graham, Mrs. R. C. Goodspeed, Miss Clara Weston, and Mrs. Gertrude Hazren. Mrs. Alex Bolm and Mrs. James Burgess will pour.

Hunter Trials At Pebble Beach

The Pebble Beach Hunter Trials and Three Phase Olympic Test are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at Pebble Beach.

The two-day show will start Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the Pebble Beach Stables with Schooling (Dressage), Model Hunter Class, Hacking Classes in all Hunter Divisions.

Saturday afternoon at 1:30 the scene will be shifted to the Bird Rock Course.

Sunday morning at 10:00 and Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock such events as Horsemanship (12 through high school), Conformation Hunters, Horsemanship Under eight years, Working Hunters, Horsemanship 8-12, Junior Hunters, Horsemanship over 19 years, and Olympic Jumping will be held at the Pebble Beach Stables Course.

Camilla Daniels Glad to be Home

Eleven weeks is a long time for such a confirmed Carmelite as Camilla Daniels to be away from her home town and she is most happy this week to be seeing her friends and neighbors again on her return from a trip to Grand Rapids, Michigan, with her sister, Mrs. Hal Bragg of Paso Robles.

All Saints' Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of All Saints' Church will be held in the Parish Hall on Thursday, May 5 at 2:00 o'clock. Max Tadlock, dean of men at Monterey Peninsula College, will speak on the public school system and responsibility to youth of our time. Mr. Tadlock is a well-known educator and an interesting speaker. He will answer questions following his talk. Tea will be served at the close of the meeting.

Church Women Set May 6 For Annual Fellowship Day

The United Council of Church Women will observe the annual May Fellowship Day at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove on May 6. Brunch will be served by the women of the church at 11:00 o'clock. There will be a panel discussion of the theme, The Responsible Christian Family. There will be nursery care for the small children. The president, Mrs. R. O. Hazelrigg, will conduct a short business meeting at the close of the brunch.

The importance of the women's concern with family life was underscored by Mrs. Spann W. Milner, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the national May Fellowship Day committee.

"At a time when juvenile crime, family disruption, mental illness and political irresponsibility are making disquieting headlines, we believe no community project is more important than that of helping families to be more secure in themselves and more aware of their responsibilities to others," Mrs. Milner said.

"Leaders in the churches and public life," she noted, "have come to recognize the influence both in building religious faith and in creating the moral atmosphere of the nation."

"Through our studies and discussions this spring," she added, "we hope an increasing number of church families will come to understand how they can put their Christian convictions into action to make their own homes happier and their communities better places to live."

WILL AWARDS DIPLOMAS

The school board members who will award the diplomas at graduation exercises this spring were named at last night's board meeting. Gordon Campbell will give out Sunset diplomas. He has a daughter graduating from Sunset. Mrs. Howard Clark, whose daughter is graduating from high school will give out the high school diplomas.

Halloran Member Of Exhibit Board For Madonna Festival

John Halloran, curator of the Carmel Art Association Gallery, is a member of the Exhibition Committee for the Tenth Annual Madonna Festival to be held May 1-8 at the Wilshire Methodist Church in Los Angeles.

Especially appropriate to the Mother's Day season, the Festival portrays the theme of Mother and Child and is open to both professional and student painters and sculptors. Featuring this year's Festival will be the selection of an appropriate painting or sculpture to be installed permanently in the Narthex of the Church. Mrs. Estella Wiemer, of Rancho Mirage, California, has donated the $500 Purchase Award. Her gift will be used to establish a permanent art collection for the church.

School Trustees Hire Recreation Director-Teacher

and swimming (he holds a senior Red Cross life saving and advanced first aid certificates). He says he is particularly interested in golf.

While working to earn college expenses through a summer job in a power-house at Boulder Dam, he was manager-player with one of the league basketball teams at Boulder City and organized a basketball tournament for southern Nevada and northwestern Arizona. As a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, he was recreation chairman for Boulder City. He officiated at basketball games in Southern Nevada League for two years.

After college, he went to work as director of the Alturas Recreation Commission and was so successful in his relations with the city council, school trustees and recreation commission, to all of whom he was responsible, that when he left to take his present position with the Calaveras County Schools, Mayor Jim Reid of Alturas proclaimed the opening day of the softball season "Bill Wakefield Day."

John R. Gray

Dr. John R. Gray, who for 15 years practised medicine in Carmel in his cottage-office at the corner of Seventh and Dolores streets, died last Friday in a San Jose hospital following a lengthy illness. He had left Carmel over a decade ago to spend his retirement years in San Jose. Funeral services were held on Monday in the Chapel of the Roses there.

Dr. Gray was born in Ottumwa, Iowa, on December 24, 1872. He is survived by his wife, Clara, of San Jose; a son, Paul, and a granddaughter, Paula, both of Reno, Nevada.

THE LITTLE ELF

Once upon a time there was a little elf named Skip. Now, Skip was an unhappy little elf. Skip wanted more than anything to be a real boy.

Skip was in his little mushroom house one night and all of a sudden a dazzling light filled the room.

"Oh, oh, oh," he said. "It's the star fairy! I wonder what she wants with me."

The fairy said, "You have been a very good little elf so I am going to grant your wish."

So it was that Skip, the little elf, got his wish.

FAIRIES

Once upon a time there was a kingdom of fairies. There was a king and a queen, and a prince and a princess. This kingdom of fairies had an enemy. His name was Black Monster.

It was early in the morning when the prince and princess woke up and looked out the window. There, coming up the path was Black Monster. The prince and the princess ran to their father, the king.

Their father came running to the window but Black Monster had disappeared forever. The fairies lived happily ever after.

THE OLD WOMAN

An old woman went to town and bought lots of vegetables and meat. Then she started home.

Just then a robber came and took her products. The old woman called the policeman.

The policeman blew his whistle and all the other policemen went after the robber and they got him and he was put in jail.

LITTLE BROWN BEAR

Once upon a time there was a little brown bear. One day he asked his mother if he could go in the forest and get some honey, but his mother said "No."

The little brown bear begged and begged. So, his mother finally had to say, "Yes." She told him to be careful because if he was not careful the bees might sting him.

The little brown bear started off down the road. He was having such a good time climbing trees and rolling in the grass that he forgot his mother's warning. He found a tree with honey in it so he started to climb it. He found the hole with the honey and stuck his hand in the hole and brought it out with honey in it.

About a second later bees came swarming out and the little brown bear ran down the tree as fast as he could. He ran down the road as fast as he could.

When he got home his mother said, "I hope you have learned a lesson."

TYPES OF CACTUS

What is cacti, or cactus? It is a very fleshy type of plant. It has a lot of water stored up from the last rain, which might have been even six months ago.

One kind of cactus gets smaller the longer it does not rain. After it rains again the arms, or branches, of the cactus will swell with water until it is its normal size.

Sometimes, in the Saguaro cactus' arm, little owls will make their home.

Sometimes a cactus is as old as a hundred years or more. Cacti (Continued on Page Fourteen)

PTA-Girls' League Offer Fun and Food At Carnival Sat.

Saturday is Carnival Day at Carmel High School when the fourth annual P.T.A.-Girls' League gala affair will take place. The school bus will leave Devendorf Plaza every 40 minutes to transport those wishing free transportation up the hill.

Events start with a parade at 10:30 o'clock but the actual carnival events begin at 11:00 and last till 4:30. There will be the usual baking contest where pupils of all ages and both sexes vie for honor of being the best cooks in Carmel. Featured will be three one-act plays given by the high school drama class, a music program presented by the high school and elementary bands and an auction of varied articles will be held at various times throughout the morning and afternoon.

The P.T.A. will have its customary bake and needlecraft sale and luncheon will be served by this group in the cafeteria from 11:30 to 1:00 o'clock. Candy, hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks may be obtained in booths on the grounds all during the day.

Among the games offered for the amusement of those attending will be dart-throwing, a pie-eating contest and a baseball throw.

Money raised from the carnival will be used by the P.T.A. for their general fund while the Girls' League plans to use their proceeds to give two and possibly three scholarships to graduating seniors.

Door prizes will be given and admission is free.

Local Cypressess Remind Lebanese Of Home Cedars

Thirty foreign exchange students from the University of California were brought by bus to the Monterey Peninsula on Monday by the Oakland Rotary Club. They were entertained overnight by Rotary members on the Peninsula and shown the various scenic and historic points of interest in the area.

A student from Lebanon, admiring our local cypressess remarked that only 40 of the famous cedars of Lebanon remain and are now under protection from vandalism. All the others have been cut down. He also showed pictures of ski tracks around the existing trees which was a new conception of the Biblical country for some of those seeing his photographs.

Carmel Rotary members who entertained 12 of the visiting students were H. C. Bolter, Bill Briggs, Dr. James Finley, Dr. R. A. Kocher, Stuart Mitchell, Tom Perry and Judson T. Stull.

Mr. Abbott Silva,
% The Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal
Carmel, California
Dear Mr. Silva:

I have read with great interest and appreciation the fine account of John James Audubon that you wrote for publication in the Carmel Pine Cone-Cymbal under the title, He Couldn't Stay Put, in its issue of November 5, 1954. Congratulations. This, of course, is excellent publicity for the Audubon cause.

Trusting that when I next have the good fortune to be in the Carmel area, I may have the pleasure of making your acquaintance.

Sincerely yours,
John H. Baker, President

Dear Wilma:

This is not so much a news item, as a farewell letter, although I prefer the French, "Au revoir", or the German, "Auf wiedersehen", meaning I'll be C.N.U. again. I do want to thank you, the Pine Cone, and all the kind friends, who always greeted me so kindly with a "Hello Pop, how's your golf", etc., and made me feel that I am really a part of the charming village of Carmel-by-the-Sea. My itinerary, if nothing happens, is as follows: May 3 to L.A. to visit my daughter and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Ludwig Kaffan, and my two grandchildren, Ludwig, Jr. and Lindalee. May 6 leave on T.W.A. non-stop to New York. Then can't tell exact date, to Frankfurt, Germany, where my daughter, Luella, and her husband, John W. Weir, will meet me. I will tour Europe with them, then later on to London where I hope to celebrate my 80th birthday and my children's wedding anniversary on the same day. Then to Wales, back to London, Frankfurt, New York, then to the little village I love most.

Congratulations to you and the young people, on the "Gaudeamus Igitur" issue.

Sincerely yours,
Pop Smith

Council Protests Liquor License, Talks City Planning

At an adjourned meeting of the city council Tuesday night, members instructed City Clerk Peter Mawdsley to notify the State Board of Liquor Control of their formal protest on the application of Mrs. V. L. Piercey, Blue Bird Restaurant proprietor, for an on-sale general liquor license.

The council's grounds for protest as forwarded to the state board: "Preliminary information received indicate the granting of the application would be detrimental to public welfare of the citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea; that the granting of the application will create a police problem; that the premises are within the vicinity of a church."

Following the brief meeting the council went into study session with the planning commission and Laurence Livingston, Jr., city planning consultant from San Francisco on the subject of a master plan for Carmel, what his services would consist of in making such a plan if the city retained him, and what his fees would be. The latter was held confidential until after the council will have an opportunity to meet other planning consultants to discuss what their procedure would be in making a master plan and what it would cost the city.

C. E. Colburn

Clinton Edwin Colburn died on Tuesday, April 26, in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was the son of the city auditor of Monterey, Charles E. Colburn and Mrs. Colburn, by whom he is survived. Other survivors are Mrs. Dora Ball of Monterey, his maternal grandmother, two aunts, Mrs. Ethel Murphy of Monterey and Mrs. Walter Carter of Seaside and many cousins.

Born on November 23, 1914 in Monterey, Colburn was for a time employed as an auditor for the U.S. government and more recently was connected with Colburn and Coyle, venetian blind shop.

He was a member of the Carmel Pistol Club, the Civil Air Patrol and Monterey Elks Lodge No. 1285.

Private funeral services, conducted by the Reverend T. J. Barkle, will be held at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. Cremation will follow.
